Vestry appeals for $150,000 for library & office extension

PLANS have been unveiled for the parish's new library and office extension – and a $150,000 campaign has been launched to cover its cost. The Vestry sincerely hopes parishioners will support this worthy project.

The new extension has been designed by Hayes Construction Inc., which has also been commissioned to carry out the construction when the money has been raised. Hayes is the company that built both the Parish Church and the major addition to the parish hall.

People's Warden Don Ruthig – who has been working on the project for more than six months – presented Hayes final design concept and cost estimates to the Vestry at its most recent meeting.

Drawings for the extension – to be constructed above the Sacristy, kitchen, toilets and utility room – will be on display in the reception room outside the sanctuary. They can also be viewed by contacting Mr. Ruthig.

Also included in the cost of the project are plans to open the reception room directly on to the courtyard garden when weather permits in spring and summer, and to build a columbarium on the church grounds.

The library and office extension will house the extensive theological library presented to the parish by the rector earlier this year. It will also provide additional office space for the clergy and treasurer.

The theological library, accumulated by the Rector over the course of his long ministry, includes a wide-ranging collection of commentaries, on the scripture, volumes of church history and theological works.

It also contains many rare books, among them a Prayer Book used at the Coronation of England's King Edward VII and an exhaustive history of the Episcopal Church published in the late 19th Century, as well as early American Prayer Books.

It is the Rector's hope that the library it will prove to be an important resource not only for members of the parish, but for those within the diocese studying for Holy Orders.

The Vestry decided on the new extension after it determined that the library was too valuable to be housed in the parish hall and reception room. It is also rather too large for the upstairs office with three clergy and the treasurer working out of it – hence the decision to construct a new extension.

By the way, on the Sunday After All Saints, November 3rd, we will be dedicating our parish hall, reception room and courtyard garden to three of our most notable benefactors: Tom Cadwalader, Joyce Holmes and Mary Elizabeth and Albert Quimby.

The reception room will be named the Cadwalader Room; the courtyard garden; the Holmes Garden; and the parish hall, the Quimby Hall. Perhaps somebody might be interesting in being named the benefactor of the new library extension.

Please send your contributions to: The Treasurer, St. Stephen's Anglican Church, 11856 Mays Chapel Road, Timonium, MD 21093. Checks should be marked "Library Appeal." JOHN COBB & DON RUTHIG

Good things from a small package

IN THE SCHEME of things St. Stephen's is a relatively small parish. But it's a small parish with a large impact that belies its size and extends well beyond the boundaries of Timonium, Maryland.

Each week I watch as our clergy and pastoral care staffs make their weekly pilgrimages to bring comfort and spiritual guidance not only to members of the parish, but to many who have no affiliation at all with St. Stephens.

On Tuesdays they're off to Glen Meadows, a retirement facility in Glen Arm, where they serve communion to a faithful following of residents.

Wednesdays it's downtown to the Joseph Richey Hospice for their weekly team meeting and a chance to provide individual visits with their residents. On the way home there's a weekly stop at Union Memorial Hospital for a Eucharist service in their chapel, and, often, visits with patients.

And, for good measure, three times a month there is an additional Eucharist on Wednesday afternoon at Brightwood/Mays Chapel Ridge.

Thursdays it's off to Lorien Mays Chapel and Lorien Columbia for communion services and, beginning in November, Broadmead in Cockeysville will be added to their itinerary.

Just to be sure they're not bored, they have a list of home bound parishioners that receive regular calls and visits, very often serving them communion as well as offerings of friendship and fellowship.

St. Stephen's is truly blessed to have such an energetic clerical and pastoral care staff. I spread my eagle's wings to salute Fr. Guy, Fr. Rhae, Fr. Mike, Deacons Michael and John, Sub Deacon Wiley, Director of Pastoral Care Happy Riley, and retired (at least officially) former Director of Pastoral Care Annie Hawkins. ISAAC

FROM THE EDITOR

Help us with our prayer list

Our prayer list, sadly, has gotten horribly out of date. We suspect that many of the people on the list have, through God's grace, recovered and are no longer in need of our special prayers.

We'll be "resetting" the list at the beginning of November to reflect those who we know would like our continued prayer for their recovery, light, strength or guidance.

Join us for a friendly game of bridge. Wednesdays at 6.30 pm in Quimby Hall.
